Area Group Chief Tells Of Planning

A further discussion of the plan, as handled by the Grayling Regional Planning Commission in the past thirty-one months. The Avalanche presents an explanation of "What-A-Plan" by chairman Arnold Mauren of the commission.

Mauren stated, "The simple way to approach planning is a process—a way of thinking about the future. If thinking is to be translated into a plan of action, though, it is to be accomplished in an orderly fashion, and made a part of the administrative process."

New Bear Hunting Bow Represents Breakthrough

Bear Archery's new Super Magnum 48 bow is the answer to many a hunter's prayer.

Years of research and experience with the 52 inch Kodiak Magnum, plus the use of a new high compression material, have led to the development of the first high-quality, powerful 48 inch hunting bow.

The high compression material used in the risers and the panther black glass limbs with white accenting caps, make the new bow a striking addition to a hunting camp or a trophy room.

Super Magnum 48 is available in weights from 35 to 70 pounds.

High compression material used in the risers is the same as Bear uses in the Tamerlane HC-30.

The bow comes in a flexible-lined custom made vinyl bow case.

Super Magnum 48 is made by Bear Archery Co., Grayling, Michigan. It sells for $399.95.

The general approach consists of gathering the necessary facts and information; analyzing the meaning and importance of the facts; establishing realistic goals; formalizing these thoughts into a plan (plan and policy making); and finally, implementation (action).

"The vehicle through which the area plan is formalized for the guidance of officials and the understanding of the general public is the comprehensive plan, sometimes called a 'master' or 'city' plan," the chairman said.

"The comprehensive plan consists of several elements—all of which are interrelated to an extent that each must be considered from the standpoint of the area as a whole and the effect of one element upon another must be recognized. For example, the location of an elementary school is affected by the location of major streets. The school should be readily accessible to the children it is designed to serve, yet it is not desirable for it to be located next to a busy highway or intersection that will be a hazard to children walking to and from school. Neither should it be located so that a majority of the children will be required to cross highways or major streets. This means, then, that neither the major street plan nor the proposed school location plan can be developed in a vacuum, without reference to the other. The development of a comprehensive plan should move along several fronts in a logical, orderly fashion," the chairman continued.

"Some of the elements which normally go to make up the comprehensive plan are: land use, major streets, and thoroughfares, parks and playgrounds, schools and public buildings, parking plans and water and sewer facilities. Each of these items requires study and planning, and each must mesh with the others," Mr. Mauren explained.

"As future plans for each of these features begin to crystallize," Mr. Mauren concluded, "priorities can be established for each individual project. Need and cost can be weighed against each other so that a budget for capital improvements can be prepared. Then, instead of depending upon particular groups to push for public improvements for which they see a need, the residents of the area have the opportunity of seeing all aspects of the area's problems and arrive at an orderly plan for acquiring the facilities when the need is greatest and in such a manner that the fiscal position of the area is not impaired."

Latest Report On Public Housing

The Grayling Housing Commission, which is under A. C. C. contract with the federal government to build 50 housing units, has completed the first phase of the plan. The commission has acquired options on all of the land needed on which to build the units. They are now in the process of completing the purchases of the properties.

Everyone living within the area to be acquired will be, if not already, located in a better standard home than they now have.

There are to be 28 housing units for the elderly, 28 with one bedroom and two with two bedrooms. Twenty-two units are planned for the non-elderly, four with four bedrooms, eight with three bedrooms, six with two bedrooms and four with one bedroom. Appliances only are to be furnished. Occupants will provide their own furniture.

To some it may seem that the project progresses very slowly. It appears this way but each phase is separate and must be handled according to federal specifications and must be approved by the Public Housing Administration before the next phase can be started.

This project will provide nice apartment homes for fifty families and at the same time furnish a more eye appealing view as one approaches the city.

As we go into each phase and have definite plans and pictures to show you we will keep everyone informed.

Anyone having any questions may call 348-9314 or stop in at the Housing Commission office on the second floor of the City Hall building.

In the meantime please help by keeping yards tidy and trash hauled away. This is a must if we are to be certified for federal aid funds.

Lora Gould, Director Housing Commission

Groups Bring Big Weekend To Sports Park

The closing weekend in January proved to be one of the biggest ski weekends in the history of the Grayling Sports Park, with attendance in the thousands. There was a terrific turnout Saturday night which was highlighted by the Cooley High party celebrating their 14th annual trip to the Grayling resort. The largest attendance of the two-day period was from the Lansing Boy Scout group numbering over 500.

This week a small group from Bloomington, Indiana, is helping to establish a new trend by spending a ski week in Grayling and at the park.

On Thursday beginning at one o'clock Grayling St. Mary's School will use the park facilities for its annual children's party.

Saturday, there will be groups coming from the Faith Luther League of Saginaw, the National League of the Interior and Chairman of the Interior and Chairman of the Interior and Chairman of the Interior.

Awards in this, the oldest and only national competition of its kind in the country, are based on the degree of achievement in relationship to the five objectives of the National Clean-Up-Bureau and predicated on the concept of voluntary self-help. Cederberg Hits At Johnson's Military Policy

Congressman E. A. Cederberg (10th Mich.) charged President Johnson with discriminating against military families in comments in the House of Representatives last week.

Cederberg noted that in the State of the Union message the President intimated that those advocating holding the line on domestic spending were calloused to human needs. Yet all military housing approved by Congress last year — some 8,500 units — has been deferred by the Johnson Administration because of increasing costs of the Viet Nam war.

"The policy appears to be guns and whipping cream for the civilian economy but only guns with a little skimmed milk for our military families," Cederberg said. "What about the human needs of our service families?" he asked. "Defense Department testimony before our Military Construction Appropriations subcommittee indicates we have several thousand military families living in substandard housing, some in deplorable condition."

The Defense Department has for many years indicated a serious need for military family housing and has decried the shortage of housing and substandard housing occupied by many service families, he added.

Why We Need A Community College

available jobs. An example of this is in 1930, 41% of the work force in the United States was made up of unskilled laborers. Today only 8% of the labor force is employed in unskilled labor. This reflects to us the world of work is requiring more training.

Another factor that will affect education is the population growth. In 1962 there were 124,300 persons that reached the labor market. By 1969, we can expect 175,100 persons to reach the labor market in Michigan.

With an expanding population and the change in the kinds of jobs available, existing colleges and universities are being extended to the limit on the number of students they can handle. College campuses can get only so large before their efficiency begins to drop. With an enrollment of 233,525 in 1964, Michigan colleges expect an enrollment of 449,000 by 1975, or doubled. College and university Boards of Trustees feel that if community college facilities could be expanded to eliminate or alleviate the first 2 years of college, a better use of their facilities could be evident with a great saving in tax dollars.

At the present time only about 30% of our graduating seniors (on a state level) are attending colleges. This means that 70% or seven out of ten children are looking around grasping for an opportunity to attend school, not necessary for college training, but technical training such as practical nursing, mechanics, or stenography.

Adults, whether retired or employed, feel the need for some institution that will provide courses for their own personal enjoyment. It is apparent now that children graduating from high schools today will have to be re-trained five times before they retire. It is also evident that most of today's graduating seniors, in 20 years, will be working on jobs that have not been invented yet.

IDEAS TO TRY

CABBAGE WITH CHARACTER

Cabbage rises higher on the popularity list when you cook it this way: Cut up onion, green pepper and cabbage rather coarsely. Add salt and pepper to taste and just enough water to create steam. Cook covered until just tender. Add a dash of basil and a dab of butter before serving.

SPICE AFFINITY

Any tomato recipe takes on new life if you add a pinch each of oregano, basil and salt. Try it with stewed or tomatoey spaghetti sauce.

The first sign of spring is fresh rhubarb in the produce department. Add a tablespoon of grated orange rind to the first rhubarb pie or cobbler of the year to highlight the welcome flavor.

Every state has its club

They are busy landscaping, some with shrubbery and flowers, others with "desert" lawns of fine crushed rock in hues of green and brown. Some use cactus and vegetation naturally found in the area. Doc is giving roses and ground pine a try. They plan to return in the spring and spend the summer and fall at Lake Margrethe.

Grayling, Michigan, Thursday February 3, 1966.

Can We Stop?

"The first session of the 89th Congress is now history," says a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. "And only history can adequately appraise it."

Controversy over what the session did will be long continued. There are those who regard it as one of the most constructive sessions in our whole history. And there are those who consider it a rubber stamp of the Executive branch, which started this nation along dangerous roads.

Whatever one's view as to any particular legislation or to the mass of it, one thing seems sure. In the words of the Chamber's release, "Stripped to its bare essentials, the program of 'change and progress' is the use of the taxing and spending power of the Federal Government to apply Federal 'expertise' and Federal subsidies to the solution of both national and individual problems."

The guiding philosophy behind almost all the major legislative acts of the session was that federal programs and federal controls are necessary to meet the problems of this time and to create an ever-more prosperous and happy nation. The federal planning authority was extended to whole regions. The same authority was extended to deal with the needs and wants of individuals. All this, of course, has been done before to some extent. But it was never done on such a sweeping and costly scale. The very scope of the programs is what has caused many commentators—including both those who favor and who oppose—to call the overall legislative package "revolutionary."

To take some examples, the Appalachian development program establishes the principle of federal responsibility for the problems of a region. The Elementary and Secondary Education Act gives the federal government an unprecedented interest in local and state education. The Higher Education Act establishes the principle of a Federal Teachers Corps, federally financed. The amendments made to the Social Security Act gives the federal government hitherto unknown powers and responsibilities in connection with medical care for those over 65. And the newest of the federal departments, Housing and Urban Development, sets up machinery for transferring responsibility for the solution of city and urban problems to the federal establishment. These are only a few of the major legislative steps which have been taken and become a part of the law. The Peace Corps, highway beautification, and water pollution, export controls—the list is a long one and in many instances moves into areas where there are few if any past guides.

That is why it is generally believed that in the next session there will be much less new legislation, and that the principal emphasis will be laid on reviewing that which has already passed and in correcting oversights, gaps and errors. Beyond that, two big questions face the nation. The Chamber's publication puts it this way: "Can a line be drawn? Where do we stop, in view of always existing pressures for 'everything for everybody'? Second, if it is possible to draw the line, how are the limited Federal funds to be distributed, in view of what will probably be mounting pressures from all segments of the society—business, labor, agriculture, cities, towns, schools, and even churches—for what they consider to be their 'fair share' of the limited Federal largesse? Finding satisfactory answers to both questions will test the fabric of representative Government and the character of the American people in the years ahead."

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

February 4, 1943

Frank R. Deckrow, now 86 years young, was guest of honor at his annual birthday dinner party, Sunday, January 31st, at the home of his son, Mr. and Mrs. John Deckrow. Twenty-five partook of the dinner at which a four-tiered white frosted cake with eighty-six blue candles was topped with a little old man. John Deckrow was home but a short time having to return to his defense work in Bay City. Mrs. Keith Goward and son Mickey of Alma, Mr. and Mrs. Hurl Deckrow of Bay City, Miss Ruth Dudley of Toledo who is soon to be a member of the family as the bride of Jerry Barger, Mrs. Laura and Miss Norma Parker of Roscommon, joined the families of S. D. Palmer, John Stephan, Joseph Lennert and John Deckrow for the party. Mrs. Norman Stephan brought in for a brief visit on her way home from the hospital the newest great granddaughter, Lani Lucille Stephan. Four other great grandchildren were present.

The second period of the Air Raid Warden Training course was held last Monday at the High School auditorium. Seventeen were present. Although the first period was attended by the same number of volunteers, five new faces were noticed at the second period to take the place of those absent from the second course who were present at the first. A total of 22 volunteers have registered for training. This is a pitiful showing for a community of this size.

The East Michigan Tourist Association obtained an opinion from the OPA authorizing operators of commercial resorts to obtain "B" cards up to the limit of their mileage needs, according to a report from Frank Davis, manager of the association. Mr. Davis stated "Because many of our resorts are located a considerable distance from town, and have to buy supplies and meet trains and buses, an 'A' card would mean in many cases that the resort could not operate. Some ration boards have been granting 'A' cards to resort operators, and we have received numerous letters asking for further information."

It's now H. W. Kuhlman, Justice of the Peace. Wartime certainly provides places for our elderly men. Besides, Rev. Kuhlman has a broad understanding of people and is of the highest integrity. One point isn't clear: Will he marry couples as a justice of the peace or a clergyman? Maybe both. That would be a hard marriage to dissolve.

MOOSE LODGE ACTIVITIES — Coming events in the near future; Friday, Feb. 4, a regular meeting at the lodge starting at 8:00 p.m., Sat. Feb. 5th, a big day with an anniversary dinner for Prelate and Mrs. Ray Carrick, celebrating their Fifth Anniversary, starting at 6:00 p.m., and at 8:00 p.m. an enrollment at the lodge room. Later in the evening will be dancing with music furnished by the Northerners, with a little added entertainment. We understand someone is in a little trouble, and this will more or less climax it, so come on down, and see what happens. Sunday, Feb. 6th, is the Moose Legion club breakfast meeting, starting at 11:00 a.m. in the lodge basement. All members and their prospects who hold the second degree in the Moose are invited. There will be an election and installation of club officers for the coming year. Cold weather was blamed for the light turnout for the rabbit hunt this past Sunday. As the result of a meeting held Sunday, it is hoped that the lodge may be able to enter two Ritual teams in state competition in April. If it can be accomplished it will be the first time we have had two teams entered. The Moose was founded in 1888 in Louisville, Ky., was reorganized in 1908, is non-sectarian and non-political. Today there are approx. 2,000 lodges, with an approx. membership of 500,000 members in the U. S., Canada and Great Britain. Mooseheart was founded in 1913, to provide a home for dependent children of deceased members of the order. More than 5,000 children and their mothers have been admitted to the famed child city — at no extra cost to the families. The child city is supported by a portion of your dues, so don't let the children down. Who knows, your children may be the next applicants.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

January 31, 1966

Dear Editor:

In response to last week's "Letter to the Editor" concerning "Basketball," I want to say that an agreement 100% with the writer's message. That full participation by all team members should be emphasized by the coach during games with other schools.

However, I think the writer forgot one other important aspect in the game of basketball as well as in other sports, namely "winning." Winning may sound very demanding, but actually it is not. It is the American way of life, whereby anyone exerting extra effort, interest, and the desire to win is rewarded economically or psychologically or both. The desire to win also teaches us how to become "good losers" and that more effort will have to be exerted in the future if you expect to win.

To me, in the game of basketball, 100% participation and winning go hand in hand. Today's basketball courts are almost twice the size they were 20 years ago and it takes quite a durable player to run up and down one of these courts for an entire game and still produce his full capacity every minute. In fact, there isn't one player on any team in our Northern class "C" conference that can do it. Sure, you will find some players that will score as many points in the last quarter as they did in each of the first three quarters even though they played every minute of the entire game, but if you will analyze their action both offensively and defensively, you will find that they were resting while on defense, and although they scored 10 points during the last quarter, their resting on defense resulted in the opposition getting 12 points during this same last quarter.

So... why not use fresh players all the time and give your team 100% strength on both defense and offense at all times. Ten average players can beat five average players any time in a game of basketball just as a four man relay team can run a mile faster than one man can.

I think a darn good example of "full team participation and winning" going hand in hand, was quite well emphasized by our football team last season, whereby 100% participation was employed by the coach at all times, which resulted in the best football season Grayling has had in many a year. I might also add that there were less injuries on last season's football squad than there had been for sometime in the past.

Granted, a coach in any sport just doesn't begin every season with all average players, however, on the other hand, he just doesn't play all the average players he does have and to heck with the rest of the boys. In my estimation, Basketball material is anyone interested in playing and winning, regardless of physical size, and that with the coaches help and knowledge, this type of material can be made into very capable basketball players. If the coach cannot perform this task, then it is a reflection on his ability and not the players.

Therefore, to our coach, I say to you, that if you have boys sitting on your bench interested in winning and playing basketball, that you were not capable of making into average basketball players, by all means do them a favor and remove them from your squad. If you feel that you are a capable basketball coach, you can attest your feelings at the next basketball game by using every man on your bench throughout the entire game... and I will be the first to agree with your feelings, win, lose or draw. You might be surprised at the results.

A very fanatic but interested basketball fan that certainly didn't enjoy the 98 points that Pellston scored against Grayling last Friday, which, by the way, was the most points ever scored against Grayling.

CARD OF THANKS

My sincere and grateful thanks to my many friends for the lovely and thoughtful cards, gifts and visits and especially the Sisters of Mercy and the nurses for their wonderful care during my stay in Mercy Hospital.

Arthur O'Connor

Dear Editor:

I agree completely with the last letter printed in the paper. It's about time people had their eyes opened to what has been going on. If you look on the bench during a Grayling basketball game you will notice about 10 boys sitting on the bench hopefully waiting to get into the game.

The team is either ahead or behind by about 20 points. The subs wait. The excuse for not playing these boys? We still had a chance or we couldn't afford to take a chance on the game. This happens not only here but anywhere basketball is played only to win. It is about time basketball became a sport played by more than just six or seven boys.

Another interested Viking fan, Gary Ashman
P.S. Please sign my name to this letter.

Don't let the plain brown cover of the long favored potato fool you. A written history of this number one vegetable would involve enough kings, explorers and high-born ladies to match your favorite TV drama.
It's now believed that the "Irish Spud" was first discovered by Peruvian Indians. Spanish explorers took the potato back to Europe where its culture rapidly spread. Because growing conditions were most favorable in Ireland, it soon became their mainstay.
Irish settlers brought the "spud" to colonial America in the 1700's. Today it is the most valuable vegetable crop in the world. The settlers probably never knew how good the potato could be, as in Patricia Potatoes:

PATRICIA POTATOES
4 medium potatoes, cooked
1 1/2 cups cream style cottage cheese - small curd
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/16 teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds
1. Mash potatoes, add cottage cheese, sour cream, onions and seasonings and blend well.
2. Spoon into a greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Brush with melted butter.
3. Bake at 350° F., about 30 minutes. Place under broiler for a few minutes to brown surface lightly. Sprinkle with almonds.

R. L. D. S. Activities

Despite heavy snowfall the evening of January 12 a family night was well attended at the Norval Stephan home. Those who wished to skated and afterwards games were played inside. A potluck dessert lunch was served and a delightful time had by all.

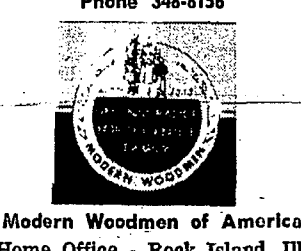

Sunday, January 16 our visiting minister was Elder Dale Christopher from Traverse City. His theme was the "Life of Christ."

Thursday, the 20th, the Women's Department met at the home of Mrs. Leonard Jensen. A delicious noon lunch was served by the committee. We continued the study "All Children Are Mine," by Deane Butler Edwards.
The next meeting will be Wednesday, February 2, at the church. All are cordially invited.

Letter Received From Frederic Resident

Mrs. George Horton of Frederic sent to the Avalanche a clipping she found recently telling of the March 24, 1951 blizzard "threatening to leave many residents of the area snowbound for Easter," when a ten-inch drifting fall was reported. The item is too long to reprint in itself, but Mrs. Horton was reminded of her "children walking to school from the old Horton farm and wading snow clear to their knees, when the children today right here in town-two blocks from school-have to be taken-by-car." Mrs. Horton mentions that "Right now, I am the oldest pioneer." "I was born and raised here. I spent all of my life here. I will be 79 years old in June. I also raised all my family of 7 children here. My husband was the first white child born here."

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

A WORLD IN TROUBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

What has happened to this marvelous world of ours in this twentieth century of God's grace? Mankind seems to be passing through a sea of troubles which has no counterpart in human history.

There are wars and rumors of wars among the nations, and many of the nations themselves are split into warring factions, each faction striving for supremacy, and each intolerant of the views, hopes, and rights of others.

The great trouble with the world is that men have forgotten God. They no longer seek spiritual guidance, but follow the vain ways of the modern world. We have become a cynical, materialistic generation.

If this drift toward world tragedy and chaos is ever stopped, the churches of the world must do it. The world's hope — our hope — is in God and His Church. He alone can save mankind from a sorrowful fate.

The Church seeks to turn the hearts of men from the ways of war and fear and hate to the ways of peace and love.

Local College Is Hope For Many Jobless Graduates

The frustration of being denied admission to college and at the same time being ill-prepared to enter the world of work is one which thousands of "middle level" high school graduates are experiencing today," says Norman C. Harris, University of Michigan professor of technical education.

"In many states these youth have no resources but to remain unemployed, join the armed forces, or gradually infiltrate the labor force through part-time, pick up jobs," says Harris.

He points out that in many Michigan communities, however such youth have a much more acceptable alternative—further education at the local community college.

"Some of this 'middle group' may eventually move on to a four-year college and a baccalaureate degree. But most of them are best suited to community college occupational education programs.

"Tuition is low at Michigan's community colleges, most high school graduates are acceptable for entrance, and community colleges are rapidly increasing in numbers so that soon the youth of most areas of the state will have ready access to post-high school occupational education," Harris says.

He cites three troublesome factors in this otherwise favorable picture:

1) Most of these youth have little if any real understanding of the career opportunities available to them in the semi-professional and technical occupations;

2) Most of these youth are not adequately prepared to enroll in and succeed with college level technical studies;

3) Many youth (perhaps a third of the graduates of Michigan high schools each year) even though they completed a college-prep course with a C average or less, still think of themselves as baccalaureate degree aspirants. With their parents as willing accomplices, they insist on enrolling in University-parallel curriculums in community colleges even when all the facts (high school grades, standardized test scores) indicate that an associate degree objective would be a far wiser choice.

Harris points out that sociological pressures—lack of interest in non-professional jobs and in less-than-baccalaureate degree educational programs—are in some ways at loggerheads with technological developments.

"Community college occupational education programs are thus trapped in the middle of a 'squeeze play' between these two contending forces," he says. The escape from the trap will involve two major moves:

1. Widespread dissemination of information about middle manpower job opportunities—the working conditions and the salary or wage income to young people and their parents; and

2. Re-structuring of the high school courses and counseling services so that it becomes possible for the student to see that there are other concepts of community college education and training than the traditional baccalaureate degree programs.

SCOUTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Northland District, of the Paul Bunyan Council, Boy Scouts of America, held its annual meeting Saturday, January 15th at the Gerrish-Higgins Elementary School at Roscommon.

Elected Chairman of the Northland District at the annual meeting, to succeed William Jennings of West Branch, was Frank Carey, owner and manager of Birch Lodge at Higgins Lake. Mr. Carey was head of the sales force of Swift and Company before purchasing Birch Lodge. He has three sons in the Scouting program.

Other officers elected at the meeting included James Rutledge, attorney and former jurist, Roscommon as Vice-Chairman. John Foehr of St. Helen was appointed to head the Organization and Extension Committee, Joseph Babcock, Roscommon to head the Scout Advancement, Ernest Williams of Houghton Lake to head the Camping and Activities Committee, and William Jennings is to head the Finance Committee.

Scouting in the Northland District of the Paul Bunyan Council ended a very successful year according to the reports at the annual meeting. Scout membership gained 108 boys during the year to bring the total membership to 410 boys registered and active in the Scouting Program. Every community in the district, which comprises Crawford, Roscommon, and the Western Half of Ogemaw County, now has scouting available for its boys.

Cub Scout advancement was very good in the district during the year and boy scout advancement only fair. Three boys advanced to the highest rank in Boy Scouting, that of Eagle, all from Troop 75 of Rose City. The best advancement record of any troop was set by Troop 80 of St. Helen; 14 of their 16 scouts advanced at least one rank since the troop was organized in February.

The District did not meet its goals in raising finances to further the work of Scouting in the Northland District; however, a finance chairman or committee was not available during much of the year and Mr. Jennings has pledged that campaigns will be better organized during 1966.

Mrs. B. E. Henig, county chairman, announced that Mrs. Bruce Carlson is to be the Crusade Chairman again this year. The county quota is $1,143.33, the Michigan Division quota being $1,190,000.

Mrs. E. L. Beery, educational chairman, explained programs that might be helpful in the area of public information and received permission to purchase one dozen more flags to be used during the April Crusade which is tentatively scheduled for the 18th through the 23rd. The Grayling State Bank has agreed to sponsor a "Kick Off" luncheon again this year.

Mrs. William Kraus, who assists Mrs. Beery, suggested some methods of communication that could be helped in informing newcomers to the area of the services available from the local cancer unit.

Mr. Maynard Regit, State Field Representative for the American Cancer Society, told of the many new educational films which are available.

It was suggested that the publishing of a financial statement might be a means of informing the public of how their donations are spent and the services rendered locally.

Are you paying more than 11½¢ a gallon for your residential heating oil?

If you are, you're paying too much to heat your home.

If you are now using natural Gas (or plan to) for cooking, water heating, clothes drying or Gaslights, and your use is equal to that of our average residential customer, you can get your Gas for heating under our special service rate at a cost equivalent to fuel oil priced at just 11½¢ a gallon. And the nice thing about our Gas rates is that the more you use, the less it costs per unit. That's a bargain in anybody's book. (Can't pay for the cost of conversion right now? Here's good news: Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, Michigan Consolidated will pay for it and its installation by a qualified heating contractor. And it won't cost you a penny until July 1, 1966!) So why not make your present oil furnace more economical this winter? Have it converted to economical natural Gas. Then you can start putting your money in the bank for a change. Instead of in your furnace. For full details, call us or your heating contractor today.
